WVU Medicine St. Joseph's Hospital Appoints Evelyn McGee, MBA, as Director of Ancillary Services & Ambulatory Clinics

Buckhannon, W.V. – WVU Medicine St. Joseph's Hospital is pleased to announce the appointment of Evelyn McGee, MBA, as the new Director of Ancillary Services & Ambulatory Clinics. A seasoned healthcare executive with more than 30 years of progressive leadership experience, McGee brings a deep well of operational expertise, a passion for patient-centered care, and a lifelong commitment to the communities of North Central West Virginia.

Originally from Clarksburg, McGee has built a distinguished career focused on improving healthcare delivery across North Central West Virginia. Over the past three decades, she has led teams in both clinical operations and ancillary services, always with a focus on enhancing patient experience, strengthening provider collaboration, and ensuring high standards of care. Her leadership is marked by a strong commitment to community-based healthcare and a results-driven approach that supports both quality outcomes and long-term organizational growth.

"We are honored to welcome Evelyn to our team," said Skip Gjolberg, President of WVU Medicine St. Joseph's Hospital. "Her depth of experience, paired with her strong ties to this region, will greatly benefit our hospital, clinics, and the patients we serve."

Prior to joining St. Joseph's Hospital, McGee served as Director of Market Operations at Dermatologists of Central States, Inc. from May 2019 to July 2025. Before that, she held the position of Vice President & Chief Operating Officer at Mountain State Medical Specialties, Inc., where she led operational and clinical strategies from 1994 to 2019.

Beyond her professional achievements, McGee is a lifelong resident of North Central West Virginia and a member of Immaculate Conception Church. She enjoys camping, hiking, traveling, and yoga. She is also the proud mother of three children, two stepchildren, and seven grandchildren.

“I’ve always believed that healthcare should be personal, accessible, and rooted in the community,” said McGee. “Joining WVU Medicine St. Joseph’s Hospital gives me the opportunity to serve the region I love and work alongside a team that shares my dedication to excellence and compassion in patient care.”
